CHANDLER, Ariz. - ProLink Solutions announced that all four properties in the Access Golf's portfolio now feature the ProLink GPS system and plan to participate in the company's advertising program.

Popular Washington State Courses to Feature Industry's No. 1 GPS System, Participate in Revenue-Generating Ad Program

CHANDLER, Ariz., Oct. 4 /PRNewswire-FirstCall/ -- ProLink Solutions, a wholly-owned subsidiary of ProLink Holdings Corp. and the world's leading provider of Global Positioning Satellite ("GPS") golf course management systems and on-course advertising, today announced that all four properties in the Access Golf Management portfolio now feature the ProLink GPS system and plan to participate in the company's exclusive national advertising program.

Based in Redmond, Wash., Access Golf operates four outstanding daily-fee facilities in the greater Seattle and Olympia metropolitan areas. ProLink's industry-leading GPS system will enhance both the game and course management at Willows Run Golf Club (Redmond) and Druids Glen Golf Club (Covington), which have upgraded to the ProStar system, while Kayak Point Golf Club (Stanwood) and Capitol City Golf Club (Lacey) have installed ProLink for the first time.

"We wanted to provide the benefits of GPS to golfers at all our courses, and ProLink was the obvious choice based on our past experience at Willows Run and Druids Glen," said Jason Matzat, Chief Financial Officer for Access Golf. "The detailed holed descriptions and precise yardages come in very handy on our courses, where hazards and doglegs are common. We've also found that ProLink helps speed up play and makes managing our cart fleets much easier. From a revenue standpoint we expect the advertising program to have a major impact as well."

Access Golf's courses rank among the most popular in the Pacific Northwest. Willows Run is a 36-hole facility that challenges golfers with numerous ponds and bunkers. Druids Glen offers amazing views of nearby Mount Rainier and a hilly, forested Keith Foster design. Kayak Point is a stern test of golf set amidst towering evergreens, while Capitol City is regarded as the driest course in damp Western Washington.

Said Lawrence D. Bain, CEO of ProLink Solutions: "Access Golf boasts some of the finest courses in Washington state and we're thrilled to provide their GPS solutions. We're confident golfers there will appreciate the system's playing benefits and that Access Golf will realize a substantial return on its investment."

Access Golf's properties join a roster of renowned courses featuring ProLink GPS, including 2006 Ryder Cup host the K Club (Ireland), 2003 Presidents Cup site Fancourt Hotel and Country Club Estate (South Africa), the Resort Course at La Cantera in San Antonio, home of the PGA TOUR's Valero Texas Open, and world-class destinations including the Four Seasons Resort Hualalai (Hawaii), Four Seasons Golf Club Resort at Terre Blanche (France) and the Arizona Biltmore Resort and Spa (Arizona).
